

Here to Help Education & Partnerships

 Printing Charity
 Welfare. Education. Heritage.

Education & Partnerships

We support education and training initiatives which champion the industry to young people or help them to progress within it. Our help reaches 500 young people a year in a practical way and ranges from supporting the development of work place skills to projects providing hands-on work experience.

We actively support sector skills initiatives including:

- Our flagship Print Futures Awards programme celebrating new talent
- Industry Apprenticeships and bursaries
- Projects and live briefs with colleges and universities to provide practical work experience

Our projects including being a founder member of the Queen's Bindery Apprenticeship Scheme, a funder of the NCTJ's Journalism Diversity Fund, The Rory Peck training fund, Bound by Veterans, the Papermaking Apprenticeship programme and postgraduate support as part of The Stationers' Bursaries.

“ Support from the Charity has helped me to go further in my career. The help has been invaluable.
Mo, training grant recipient ”

Images

Above: 2017 Print Futures Awards reception
Below left: NCTJ Journalism Diversity Fund

We are proud to support and partner with:

Bound by Veterans

ual: london college of communication